SVP, Voice of Customer

 LinkedIn

Jason DeRoner, formerly co-founder and CEO of TeachBoost (acquired by SchoolStatus in February 2022) now spearheads SchoolStatus' efforts to capture and use customer insights to guide our product strategy and roadmap. By staying closely connected to our customers' needs, Jason ensures we make informed decisions and keep the customer at the center of everything we do.

Jason embodies the importance of collaboration and visionary principles. Firmly rooted in solving tangible problems—and emphasizing that impactful solutions arise from identifying and addressing the most critical issues—Jason recognizes educators' daily struggles and asserts that solutions must directly benefit both students and educators. To comprehend these challenges, Jason encourages spending ample time with those immersed in school environments, fostering serendipitous insights and relationships along the way.

Beyond his professional pursuits, Jason enjoys activities involving building and creating. His craftsmanship extends to brewing beer, constructing a wall-mounted NYC subway/weather tracker with Raspberry Pi, and exploring various cooking techniques.
